Unsure how a Sealed-Bid auction works? No problem. Sealed-Bid auctions are different than traditional auctions in that all bid amounts are submitted in private; they are not publicly announced to competing bidders. Prior to the auction, the Auctioneer and Seller establish a bid submission deadline. Bidders are required to inspect the assets, perform due diligence, and submit their bids prior to this deadline. Once the bidding period has closed, the bids are reviewed and the highest bidder wins.
